THIS SUIT $15

And we have a hundred more just like it. We sold a suit from this lot Saturday to a well known Duluthian, who said he had been all over town looking at the 7-come-11 suits, and in one Superior street store he was shown a suit like it, but the price was $20 and the salesman said it had been marked earlier in the week $25, but that the boss would not cut under $20. Here is another illustration of what we have often told you that our regular prices are less than those asked at the circus sales.

WOODS HAS MANY JOBS

Is the Busiest Man in Washington During the Summer.

Story of How Speaker Joe Cannon Began His Career.

By Ralph M. Whitelaw.

Washington, June 29.—While all eyes and all thoughts are turned toward conventions and the presidential campaign, there is one man in Washington who is busy with other matters of import. He is Elliott Woods, superintendent of the capitol building and grounds. He is the busiest man in Washington during the summer.

Mr. Woods has, on conservative estimate, thirteen jobs, and he holds four offices. When he is about to begin his day's work, he figures out the time he must allot to each of many duties.

"Let's see," he ruminates, "where will we start this morning?"

Then he counts over his ten fingers, assigning some bit of work to each one and starts over again.

Mr. Woods is in charge of the completion of the house office building and the senate office building, and he belongs to all the commissions of the last session of congress appointed to look after the construction of monuments and memorials.

One of his commission duties embraces drawing up plans for the Lincoln memorial. He must also look after plans for the new buildings of justice, state, commerce and labor and finishing the pediment of the west wing of the capitol.

An underground railway is to be installed to operate between the capitol and the lawmakers' new offices. Woods must look after this. He has the deciding vote in what sort of a contrivance shall be installed so that members of the house, seated in their offices, can take a receiver off the hook and hear what is going on in the house.

The grass on the capitol grounds must be kept well trimmed. Woods' employees must look after this, and somebody must look after the employees. All improvements in the capitol building also come under this busy man's jurisdiction.

Woods has plenty of energy. After drinking a cup of coffee—he never eats any breakfast—he jumps into his automobile, makes a dash for the capitol building, and stops at one of his offices. Here he listens to all complaints and all requests, and then rushes to his den in the White House.

From there he goes to his office in the senate office building, then to the house office building, and finally to the main office in the capitol building.

The rest of the day is put in trying to work and keep appointments at the same time, as well as to attend meetings of what we have often told you that our regular prices are less than those asked at the circus sales.

the animal in a short time.

Woods is not satisfied with the amount of work he has to do. As a relief, he rigged up a wireless telegraph apparatus on top of the hill and he generally spends a little time there every day. He sends jocular messages to battleships far out at sea and catches messages intended for other instruments than the one he is working.

After firing of this, the under-worked man sits down at a piano and composes a little music. Elliott Woods is six feet tall. He weighs as much as a man his height should weigh. He never becomes tired.

Many stories have been told about how Uncle Joe Cannon, speaker of the house, began his career. One of the favorite yarns in Washington is the following:

Joe Cannon boarded a train somewhere down east and traveled as far as his carfare lasted. When near Danville, Ill., the conductor asked for more money.

"Guess you'll have to get off, then," replied the conductor.

"Just as well get out here as anywhere else, I suppose," said Cannon.

"That's how he came to alight near the town of Danville. He went to a boarding house and, after a display of logic, managed to run up a fairly good-sized bill. At that time there was a fight on to decide the county seat. Danville won out and Joe decided to travel in that direction. He sought his boarding house keeper.

"I owe you quite a bill," he said. "Don't know it any better than I do," replied the landlady.

"Haven't a cent," said Cannon. "You look it," was the unsympathetic reply.

"Have some prospects over in Danville. I'll pay you when I make good. All right."

"Can't get to Danville, though. Haven't the fare. Lend me two dollars."

"Good money after bad," said the landlady. "Well, your nerve deserves it. Here's five dollars."

That's how Joe Cannon came to settle in Danville. The five dollars bill was the basis for his success, both financially and politically.

Tariff revision, the biggest piece of work in the routine of government, is having its foundation laid this summer, and the builders are going about their work in a most careful manner.

A number of meetings will be held in this city during July for the purpose of obtaining expressions of opinion from business and commercial men as to what branches of the tariff need first attention.

To make the plan more certain, representatives are sending out notices to their constituents, so that, if special representation is necessary, they can have their experts in Washington when the meetings are held.

It is thought that an extra session will be called immediately after the 4th of July.

The make-up of the committee will be about the same in next congress, consequently whatever is done during the summer will have an important bearing on final action.

It is pretty generally conceded that if the question could be dogged with safety to the Republican party, the dogging would be done, but so many promises have been made and the demand for revision has become so general that the house is coming to accept the necessity for changing the schedules.

MORE BOATS THIS WEEK

Fleet Which Became Bunched at Cleveland Arriving Here.

Coal Cargoes Numerous and Some Boats Must Wait.

The fleet of ore carriers, which was bunched at Cleveland last week, sailed into the local harbor Saturday and Sunday, and greater activity is promised at the Duluth and Superior docks during the coming week. The boats were forced to wait at Cleveland to drop their cargoes, and accordingly there was little doing at the upper lake docks last week. Fifteen boats came in light for ore Saturday and Sunday, and ten others brought coal with prospects of return cargoes of ore. The up-bound fleet, which has not yet arrived, is quite large, and there will be something of a rush at all the docks this week. Coal boats are becoming bunched here, and some of them will be forced to anchor in the basin and await berth. Offerings of coal cargoes are being taken up quite freely at lower lake ports now. Ore shippers are making bargains more freely at 6 cents from the head of the lakes, and although the vessel owners do not take kindly to the cut rate, they are forced to accept it rather than return light down the lake. The lumber trade continues very quiet. Only an occasional log is sent out, and there is no prospect of an immediate boom. A few cargoes of grain will be taken out for export this week, but most of the activity in the Duluth harbor will be furnished by the ore shipping.

TUG WHALEN LEAVES.

Port Arthur Ice Breaker Extensively Repaired at Superior. The tug John A. Whalen, of the Port Arthur ice breaker, which was put in the docks at the Superior shipyard about two weeks ago for repairs, left last night for Port Arthur. Nearly $5,000 was spent on the Whalen, and she is now prepared for another aggressive campaign against the ice in the Port Arthur harbor next fall. The plates on her sides, which were damaged by the ice last spring, were removed and replaced by heavier steel.

VETERINARY SURGEONS

State Convention Will be Held in Duluth Soon.

July 8 and 9 Are Dates for Minnesota Gathering.

The majority of the veterinary surgeons of the state will be in Duluth July 8 and 9, when the bi-annual convention of the Minnesota State Veterinary Medical association will be held. The local entertainment committee, comprising Doctors J. G. Annand, J. G. Harris, J. W. Cook and J. McKay, has been busy during the past few days sending out invitations to the members of the association, to be present. The members are informed that when they arrive in Duluth they will be enjoying its finest weather and that every effort to give them a good time will be put forth. It is expected that many of the visitors will bring their families with them, and it is planned to make the gathering a big outing as well as a convention. The opening session will be held on the morning of July 8, when the reports and address of the officers will be heard, new members elected, committees appointed and officers named to serve during the ensuing term. At the afternoon session papers will be read by E. T. Tuohy, Dr. D. G. E. Leach, Dr. J. McKay, Dr. C. E. Lyford, Dr. W. A. Kuhns, Dr. H. C. Lyons, Dr. W. L. Beebe, Dr. S. H. Ward, Dr. B. Mackey and Dr. Reynolds. The second day of the convention will be devoted to pleasure trips and the banquet which will probably be at the McKay hotel in the evening. The program for the second day includes a boulevard drive and trips to Minnesota Point and Lester and Lincoln parks.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

Dockstader's Minstrels.—Low Dockstader and his great minstrels will be seen at the Lyceum tonight, and an absolutely new show is promised. As his invariable rule, Dockstader is to be seen in an entirely new specialty, and the visiting librarians will be quizzed by the waiter in a quick feature anything he has ever done. His act is replete with the most up-to-date material and his shades of wit and a number of vulnerable targets in the present political and social fads. He has perfected another of his famous moving pictures, which have in the past few years caused such favorable comment. This picture is described as a masterpiece of subtle comedy and one that appeals in an irresistible manner to all classes. Neil O'Brien, who by reason of his grotesque negro impersonations, bears off second honors in the show, has devised an entirely new act that is funnier than his famous street car scene. In this act he will be seen in a quick turn in a quick restaurant and the fun he extracts seems to be endless. "The Land of Nod" or "The Evolution of Tobacco" will be one of the new numbers in the entertainment. It deals with the discovery of tobacco and its method of use by various races. As tobacco is a strictly American born weed and as its use began in this country and spread to the rest of the world, it is a subject of interest to all. The show is a well planned and a consistent subject, to weave into a musical performance. The result is a show which is a masterpiece of scenic and musical quality. DIES WITHOUT REGRET.

Murderer and Suicide Says He Intended to Kill His Wife.

Houghton, Mich., June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Kokala, who on Thursday night shot his wife and little daughter and then fired a bullet into his own body, died Saturday at St. Joseph's hospital, where he and his wife had been removed after the shooting. Before dying, Kokala was conscious for a time and made a statement regarding the shooting to his brother, Charles, who visited him at the hospital. He said that the shooting of the girl was unintentional, and it was when he saw that she had been hurt that he decided to take his own life. The shooting of his wife, however, he said he was not sorry for, and that it was deliberate on his part, he having sworn to kill her on account of the mental torture that he claimed she had caused by her misconduct.

GOING TO HOUGHTON.

Library Association Delegates to Visit Copper Country Tuesday.

BARLEY AND HOPS—a food and a tonic. A trifle of alcohol—an aid to digestion. That's beer. If you get a pure beer—well aged—nothing is better for you. It is not good advice to say "Don't drink beer." There are many who need it. Your doctor advises beer. The healthiest peoples of the world drink the most of it. But it is good advice to say, "Don't drink the wrong beer." Some beer causes biliousness. Schlitz does not. Schlitz beer is both good and good for you. Nine people in ten would be better for drinking it. Schlitz is the home beer, because of its absolute purity. It is aged for months, then filtered, then sterilized. There are no after effects.

HE HOLDS THAT LOVE IS SUPREME

Dan Antonio Vows He Will Wed English Princess Beatrice.

Madrid, June 29.—"I will marry Beatrice if I have to quit Spain, leave her army and forfeit my princely privileges," declared Don Antonio of Bourbon-Orleans. "No sacrifice is too great for me to make for her sake, though I hope she may yet become reconciled to the Roman Catholic church."

Religious faith is the only barrier to a marriage between Infanta Beatrice, the elder son, a cousin of Spain's king, and Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg, a cousin of Spain's queen.

Beatrice and her husband, the duke of Galliera, have stoutly opposed the match unless Beatrice became a Roman Catholic, but Antonio seems to have won his mother over to his cause. At any rate she came here from Paris with him on a hurried visit to tell King Alfonso that he had better tell the pope to grant a dispensation for a mixed marriage, as Antonio and Beatrice are determined to get married anyway.

The king is quite willing to help out and so is the queen, who would dearly love to have her favorite cousin at the Spanish court for a companion. But the queen mother is holding out, insisting that Beatrice must accept the Catholic faith as a condition precedent to betrothal, just as Queen Ena did.

Princess Beatrice, who is built something on the lines of Shakespeare's famous heroine with the same name, is so independent and so resolute that she has refused to promise anything more than if she feels drawn to the church after marriage she will become a Catholic.

After the wound has been cauterized in this way it should be thoroughly washed out with a bichloride of mercury solution, packed with gauze and dressed every day.

As a result of the celebration of Independence day during the past five years there were 28 cases of lockjaw, with 72 deaths, 688 being due to blank cartridge wounds. The number of cases following blank cartridge wounds has decreased from 363 in 1903 to 82 in 1907, while the cases following other wounds have remained fairly constant.

Chicago, June 29.—"Lost, $2.37 playing 'poker' in twenty years and had $100,000 worth of fun," is the way Police Inspector John Wheeler summarized his experience in the game of draw.

Inspector Wheeler has kept account of the number of seances and also of the amount he has won and lost. At one time he was $752 ahead of the game. That was world's fair year. He now forever admits that he should have quit the game a winner. But he wanted to increase his winnings. He began to lose instead, and now, after twenty years of playing he is $2.37 to the bad.

TO PREVENT LOCKJAW. Instructions Are Issued by Surgeon-General Wyman.

Washington, June 29.—Surgeon General Wyman has issued the following instructions for the prevention of tetanus (lockjaw) following injuries from Fourth of July blank cartridges, pistols, toy cannons, firecrackers, etc.: "In addition to giving a preventive dose of tetanus antitoxin, it should be an invariable procedure to lay open all matter, dead or badly injured flesh, should be removed, an antiseptic being used to prevent pain and proper measures taken to limit bleeding.

After the wound has been thoroughly cleaned it should be swabbed out with strong carbolic acid of at least 25 per cent, followed by a washing with 65 per cent alcohol to prevent further action of the acid.

After the wound has been cauterized in this way it should be thoroughly washed out with a bichloride of mercury solution, packed with gauze and dressed every day."

A special study of the subject was made by Dr. John F. Anderson of the Marine Hospital of Public Service. He found that the number of cases of tetanus following the celebration of the Fourth diminished from 45 in 1903 to 73 in 1907 as the result of the use of tetanus antitoxin.

ZU EULENBERG TRIAL BEGINS

The Public and Correspondents Excluded From Hearing.

Berlin, June 29.—The trial of Prince zu Eulenberg, who is charged with perjury and with inciting another person to commit perjury, in connection with the history of the institute have been there been so many delegates, such enthusiasm shown in the work of the institute, or so many able and interesting papers presented.

The delegates who made the trip to the range from Duluth last Wednesday reached the city Saturday night. The trip was made to fly on the Vermilion range and extended to Cologne on the Western Mesala range. At every point of inspection the delegates were shown the most hospitable treatment and the citizens of the range towns vied with each other in giving the delegates a good time and in showing them the many points of interest.

Cologne came in for a lot of praise from the members of the institute. The work that has been carried on at that point by John Greenway won the unstinted praise of the visitors. They thoroughly approved of the improvements that have been made there, and commend the broad gauge policy adopted in providing comfort for the employees of the United States Steel company.

Over 20 delegates were in attendance at the meeting. It was the largest convention in the history of the institute. The 18th meeting of the institute will be held at Marquette.

SAVED FROM THE KNIFE

Gall-Stones removed from well known citizen by Dr. Wittman.

A large crowd, numbering 5,000 people, attended the great Wittman free lecture and entertainment at the corner of Twenty-third avenue West and Superior street last Saturday night. More successful demonstrations were performed.

Saturday night's free lecture and entertainment was well attended. The first part of the program was opened by the City band, which rendered some fine selections, followed by the opening piece of the vaudeville company, after which Wittman gave one of his lectures upon the afflictions of the human body and also illustrating different parts of the body which were shown by pictures thrown upon the canvas, describing how parts of the gathered diseases are cured by taking the wonderful remedy from which thousands of people have been made new, and by the number of cures that are given on the platform every night are convincing the people that the wonderful remedy is able to cure. The testimonials are coming into the office every day from people who have taken the cure and thanking Wittman for his Great Discovery and of the healing of their diseases. The remarks heard from people standing around, telling one another how they had found relief after taking the remedy go to show that Wittman's words have proven and have gained many friends since his stay in the city. The demonstrations on Saturday night were of an extraordinary character. The first case was that of a little girl, Annie Olsen, 2904 West Third street. She had an affliction of the eyes; one eye was completely closed and she was unable to open it, but after she was given the cure by Dr. Wittman the little girl was able to open her eye to the joy of her father, who was with her. Miss Milnetta Clark, 492 West Superior street, was troubled with deafness and was relieved in about five minutes so she was able to hear a whisper. John Morgan, from Proctor, Minn., was also troubled with deafness and was relieved in the same way. The boys' candy contest will be put on again tonight by the same two boys that were there on Saturday, as they did not finish. Free hand concert and a complete change of program. Everybody invited.

The offices are at the corner of Twenty-first avenue West and Superior street, in the Vincent block, rooms 7 and 8. Open from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 4 p. m. Office open Sunday afternoons from 2 to 4.

Mr. Chas. Blomgren, of 2020 West Second street, brought into the office this morning a large quantity of gall stones which were removed without the knife. He is feeling fine and it saved him from an operation.

Rev. A. H. Wurtele Evangelizes the Late Grover Cleveland.

"The Ideal of Citizenship" was the topic of the sermon preached at the pro-cathedral yesterday by Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, from the text, "For Our Citizenship is in Heaven," Phil. III, 20. "If there is any one thing of which Americans should be especially proud," said Mr. Wurtele, "it is their citizenship, their rights, their privileges, their liberties as citizens of the greatest and grandest commonwealth on earth."

"The real kind of patriotism we need today is not the noise and ostentatious decoration; not shouts and elaborate fireworks, but a true love and pride of country that will inspire our men and women, our boys and girls, to work for the advancement of their own town, their own state and their own country. Patriotism should begin at home. Each citizen should be loyal to the woman who claims his name. He should take a pride in the property he owns and should work for the beautifying and improvement of the city in which he lives. State ambition will always be a factor in the character of every loyal citizen. Patriotism in its fullest sense means that, added to the love of home, town and state, there is also an intense love of country."

APPLICATION OF THAW DENIED

Judge Will Not Order His Removal From Matteawan.

New York, June 29.—Justice Dowling today denied the application of Harry K. Thaw to be removed from the Matteawan state asylum for the criminal insane to some other institution. The decision says: "If, after sufficient observation, it is found proper to remove him to some other institution the state authorities can so act."

Justice Dowling's order handed down in this city today is not operative for the present at least, as Thaw is now in custody under the orders of Justice Mills by reason of the writ of habeas corpus, under which he was taken to court in White Plains today.

Scores are destitute and in need not only of food, but clothing and medical attendance.

The dead: Mrs. G. W. Johnson, Fred Stottbrey, Thomas Rothwell, Miss Kate Mills, Mrs. Olaf Nicholson and baby, Mrs. Rebecca Vandergark. The seriously injured: Esther Carlson, Edna Curran, Mrs. John Haggren, Mrs. Frank Watkins and baby, Mattie Rothwell, Bert Rothwell, Mrs. Svenson and children, Mrs. Theodor Comdit and Charles Daly.

The storm, which lasted but a few minutes, was able to do a great deal of damage in this locality or at Ottumwa, on the Milwaukee road, directly to the south of Clinton.

The entire west side of the village, which has a population of about five hundred, was flattened to the ground, nothing in the path of the storm withstanding the fury of the violently whirling eddy.

The cyclone's path, covering an area about six miles long and one-half mile wide, was literally swept clean of human beings, live stock and buildings, nothing remaining to mark the former sites of cozy little homes and modest buildings but ragged, splintered heaps of debris.

Gathering about three miles to the northwest of the peaceful farming community, the storm swung about the straggling houses of the village, and at a moment it seemed that it would continue on its course, sparing the more thickly settled portions of Clinton.

Through some fearful caprice of the elements, however, the storm appeared to hesitate a moment, and then, as if by a sudden change of mind, it turned back, with redoubled fury, and entered the village from the southwest, to expend one last staggering blow at the already sorely stricken town.

After a day of nearly unbearable sultriness, heavy, dark clouds of copper-haze, began to gather ominously to the northwest of the village of Clinton. Hanging low down toward the ground, the mass of clouds, belching and seething, gradually formed in the shape of a funnel and started on its course of destruction.

Through some strange force the storm at first detoured around the village, first striking the Pinker farm where a large barn was leveled. Plunging on, the whirling mass encountered the Higgins homestead, where seven people were huddled in the frail protection of the farm house.

Although the buildings were literally reduced to kindling wood, no one was killed, but Mr. Higgins and Rachel Higgins were badly injured.

A short distance away, in the path of the storm, stood the home of Thomas Rothwell, and it was at this point that the first fatalities occurred. Mr. Rothwell himself was instantly killed, while his wife's mother, Mrs. P. B. Vandemark, as well as Miss Kate Mills, a young school teacher, also lost their lives. The Rothwell home was literally torn to pieces by the violence of the twisting winds, nothing remaining save a splintered mass of ruins.

Cars Blown From Track. It was at this point that the storm, manifesting its strange eccentricity, and actually turning directly around, entered the village of Clinton proper, with renewed fury, from the southeast. Practically every building to the west of the railroad tracks was flattened to the earth, carrying down many people who had sought shelter in their homes, terrified at the fearful spectacle witnessed but a few moments before as the storm skimmed about the borders of the town.

It was at this point that the cyclone encountered a mixed train of fifteen cars on the Milwaukee road which was just entering the village. Every car was blown from the tracks, including the passenger coach, which contained seventeen people. Many of these were slightly injured, including Father Keavey of Graceville.

In its path in the town the cyclone demolished the United Lutheran church, as well as the Episcopal church. Then it whirled against Gust Johnson's home, and Mrs. Johnson is supposed to have perished.

PUKWANA WIPED OUT.
South Dakota Town About Removed by Cyclone.

Mitchell, S. D., June 29.—The little town of Pukwana, in Brule county, about fifty miles west of Mitchell, on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, was almost wiped out at 11 o'clock Saturday night by a tornado.

No one was injured. Between twelve and fifteen stores and hotels were totally destroyed, and there is not a house in the town that was not damaged. Two large elevators were blown down across the Milwaukee tracks, covering a freight car. The railway station was wrecked.

On the ranch of Carpenter Sanborn, adjoining the town, a two-story building and two were destroyed, entailing a loss exceeding $100,000.

The tornado was accompanied by rain and hail, which covered a strip of country three miles wide. The entire farming country in the path of the hail storm was ruined. A coal car standing on the Milwaukee track was half filled with hailstones.

A small tornado, was reported ten miles east of Mitchell, but the damage was slight.

Marshall-Wells Hardware Company Plans Structure in Spokane.

Improvement Will Cost Local Wholesale Concern About $150,000.

The Marshall-Wells Hardware company of this city has broken ground for a new warehouse, 100 by 142 feet ground dimensions, and five stories high, at Spokane, Wash. The new building indicates something of the splendid growth of the company's business on the Pacific coast. With Duluth as the home office, the company already has large branch houses in Portland and Winnipeg, and the new structure to be erected at Spokane will be another important acquisition to the local wholesale hardware concern that has built up so large a trade between the Head of the Lakes and the coast.

The Spokane-Review of recent date has the following to say about the company and its enterprise: "Plans for the first part of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company building are in the hands of local contractors, and in hand in the near future. The building will be at the northwest corner of Maine avenue and Colfax street, about 100x142 feet, costing about $150,000. It will be a brick structure, five stories high.

In addition to the warehouse, a pipe and steel fitting room will be built west of the main building. Marshall-Wells own all of the ground on the north side of Maine avenue, between Market and Colfax, a frontage of 400 feet. They bought this property a year ago for $17,000. Next year all of the ground is to be improved with a big warehouse.

E. A. Moyle has come to Spokane to become general manager of the new business here. This is the first big wholesale company that has come to Spokane and bought a site and erected a big warehouse. In that respect the building will mark a new industrial era. The home office of Marshall-Wells company is in Duluth, Minn."

HE PUT $25,000 IN MONEY ORDERS.
Strong Argument in Favor of Postal Savings Banks.

Washington, June 29.—(Special to The Herald).—The postmaster general has just issued a warrant, drawn on the treasury department, in the sum of $25,000, payable to the order of A. M. Reilly of Pendleton, Or., which is the most remarkable warrant of the kind ever drawn against the United States.

It seems that about a year ago Mr. Reilly sold some money for which he had no particular use at the time. He didn't want to put it into a bank, but he had found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and he had bought it for less than $1 would be without food. For nearly forty years, New Discovery has been the best of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia and influenza, it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00 trial free.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS.
Indications of Awakening in General Business After July 1.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 29.—The Iron Trade Review says: "Indications favor an awakening in general business at the beginning of the second half of the calendar year. July 1 is a particularly important period in business affairs and is especially so this year. It may be suggested that during the depression of the past six months the railroads and their current of business have been held up to view as of more importance to the iron and steel industry than any other factor; and the iron and steel interests have watched with much concern for a return of railroad purchasing. It is reasonable to expect considerable activity in the way of buying by this great interest in the second half of the year and for the reason, first, that the fiscal years of railroad companies end on July 1, and purchasing agents have been ordering orders placed until that period has been passed. Second, it is the beginning of the crop movement season and winter wheat will likely be under transportation to the markets early in July. It is expected that the movement of the northwest will help the coal mines to operate more freely and furnish some tonnage to the railroads.

The political situation is more clear as the candidate of one great party is now named, and the other candidate is practically assured. Investments in municipal bonds and other low interest paying investments have almost absorbed the supply of this class of securities and it is not unreasonable to expect that with improved business conditions investors will be less timid, especially as industrial stocks and new enterprises offer opportunities which under normal conditions would seem unusually attractive. Sales of agricultural implements in the last 30 days have exceeded expectations.

The above are plain statements of conditions in business affairs which argue for improvement in the last half of the year.

WOULD GO TO CONGRESS.
C. E. Taylor of Aitkin Files for Republican Nomination.

St. Paul, Minn., June 29.—C. E. Taylor of Aitkin has filed for the Republican nomination for congress from the Eighth district. He was at St. Paul and deposited his $5 with the secretary of state Saturday. Taylor is an engineer in Aitkin and wants to go to congress to represent the farmers. He says that Bede is not wanted in the district and Miller is not known as he thinks he has an excellent chance of getting the nomination.

TO BE READY NEXT MONTH.
First Public Playground in Duluth Early in July.

Duluth will have its first public playground for children early in July, and Lincoln park is the location that has been chosen for it. West Duluth will be next in line, and soon the city will be equipped there a little later in the season.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Duluth Playground association will be held some time this week. Rev. Arthur H. Wurdette, one of the principal leaders in the movement, has been out of the city for several days past, and nothing will be done in the way of fitting up the park until he returns. Members of the committee have a good general idea of the system they will follow out, however, in fitting up the park, and it will not take long to get the necessary apparatus on the ground. The first playground should be in full operation within the next two weeks.

The park board and the playground association are two entirely different organizations, but they are working hand in hand in this movement. The latter will have general supervision of all the playgrounds in the city, but the park board will work in connection with it, and do whatever it can to help matters along.

Measuring the park board is doing a little on its own initiative in the way of fitting up some of the parks for children. Swings, seesaws and sand piles have been put in Cascade park and Portland square for the little ones, and the children are getting a good deal of pleasure out of them. Similar improvements will be made in other parks of the city, independent of the playgrounds, but with much the same object in view. The parks will not be any means so well equipped as the regular playgrounds, so far as the children are concerned, and there will be no instructors on the grounds to look after the children and guide their play, but the younger element will be able to get a good deal of fun out of the sand piles, swings, etc., nevertheless.

Members of the association are not at all worried over the funds to go ahead with the work. Citizens of Duluth are taking such an active interest in the movement that nearly everybody approaches with willingness to contribute. No very large sums are asked of any one person. Anything from $1 up is accepted with thanks. One dollar entitles anybody to a membership in the association for one year.

DENIES MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL.
Court Refuses a Third Trial of the Kitz Case.

Judge Cant has denied the motion of Jacob Kitz for a third trial of the damage case instituted against him by Mrs. Olga Bergman of Hibbing. The arguments were heard at the special term of the district court, Saturday afternoon, Martin Hughes and C. O. Baldwin appearing for Kitz and Victor Power for Mrs. Bergman. The first verdict awarded Mrs. Bergman $5,000 damages. Kitz obtained a new trial through the supreme court, and the second verdict gave Mrs. Bergman $4,750. Kitz attempted to have this verdict set aside. He still has recourse in an appeal to the supreme court from the order denying the new trial.

The motion for the new trial was based on the claim that Mrs. Carl Kapp, the star witness for Mrs. Bergman, had made statements admitting that she perjured herself at the trial. Mrs. Kapp claims that she signed the admission of perjury under compulsion, and that her husband mistreated her in the effort to compel her to swear that she did not tell the truth on the witness stand.

In reviewing the evidence, Judge Cant said he believed that Mrs. Kapp told the truth on the stand and referred to the alleged evidence as mistaken zeal on the part of the "confessors."

Considering all the circumstances, the court was loth to have it dragged through another trial. Kitz was granted a stay of thirty days, however, to permit him to prepare an appeal to the supreme court should he desire to do so.
